

Women's International
Peace Movement

The Role of NGOs In Promoting Peace

“ Peace Matters Lecture “

November 19,2005
Manesterly Palace

The Suzanne Mubarak Women's International Peace Movement is organizing a panel of discussion centered on "The Role of NGO's in Promoting Peace" at the Manesterly Palace in Cairo on Saturday 19th November, 2005.

H.E. Mrs. Suzanne Mubarak, President and Founder of the Movement, will head a panel of eminent personalities and experts including H.E. Mr. George Papandreou, former Foreign Minister of Greece and currently Leader of the Greek social democratic political party, Ambassador Marilyn McAfee, President of the World Affairs Council of Jacksonville, and Ambassador Aaron Miller, President of Seeds of Peace.

The Moderator for this panel will be Dr. Ismail Serageldine, Member of the Movement's Board of Directors.

Mrs. Mary Eisenhower, President and Chief Executive Officer of People to People International, is the panel's guest of honour.

The event promises to channel the experience of these renowned speakers in an important dialogue pertaining to the many ways in which NGO's can help to build the foundations for a sustainable peace across nations.

The Suzanne Mubarak Women's International Peace Movement is a non-profit international association that strives to enhance conditions conducive to sustainable peace and human security. An integral part of the Movement's work is focused on fusing the energy and creativity of NGO's working in related fields to increase their efficacy in implementing their common objectives.

-----